

ABSTRACT

This invention provides a method of blocking unwanted emails, yet provides the flexibility to permit the recipient to receive emails from new senders as desired. This invention provides a firewall with a list of approved senders as described above. In 5 addition, however, the method of this invention permits the recipient to allow specific users to bypass the firewall.